Dear Shareholder,

We are writing to you as a Shareholder of the Invesco India Bond Fund and regarding an amendment to be effective on 16 December 2024 as further described below.

If the below mentioned amendment does not suit your investment requirements, you are advised that you may, at any time redeem your shares in the Invesco India Bond Fund without any redemption charges. Redemptions will be carried out in accordance with the terms of the Prospectus.

Unless otherwise stated below, all costs associated with the below amendment will be borne by the Management Company.

A. Removal of Invesco Asset Management (India) Private Limited as non-binding Investment adviser for the Invesco India Bond Fund

The Investment Manager of the Invesco India Bond Fund has relied on non-binding investment advice from Invesco Asset Management (India) Private Limited since the launch of the Invesco India Bond Fund.

While the Investment Manager is responsible for portfolio management, the Investment Manager has historically used the investment adviser in India to provide research and non-binding investment advice. Over the last years, the fixed income research team of the Investment Manager has continually developed the relevant coverage and capacity to support the wider investment universe and therefore believes that the investment team no longer requires the investment adviser to provide research and non-binding investment advice.

For the avoidance of doubt, the removal of Invesco Asset Management (India) Private Limited as non-binding investment adviser has no impact on the fee structure of the Invesco India Bond Fund and or how the Fund is managed.

The reference to Invesco Asset Management (India) Private Limited in the Prospectus will be removed at the next Prospectus update (planned by end of Q4 2024/ January 2025).
